Dear Usec. Panadero:

11:10am

Warm greetings from the University of the Philippines School of Urban and Regional Planning (UP SURP)!

The UP SURP is organizing the International Conference in Urban and Regional Planning (ICURP 2018) with the theme "Planning towards Sustainability and Resilience" on March 14 and 15, 2018, to be held at the Century Park Hotel Manila. The main objective of the conference is to share and exchange knowledge, lessons learned, and experiences to meet the diverse environmental, social and economic needs of existing and future societies. The 2-day event is expected to be attended by around 300 to 500 participants from local government units (LGUs), national government agencies (NGAs), non-government organizations (NGOs), the academe, as well as, professionals and private practitioners involved in planning and development advocacy.

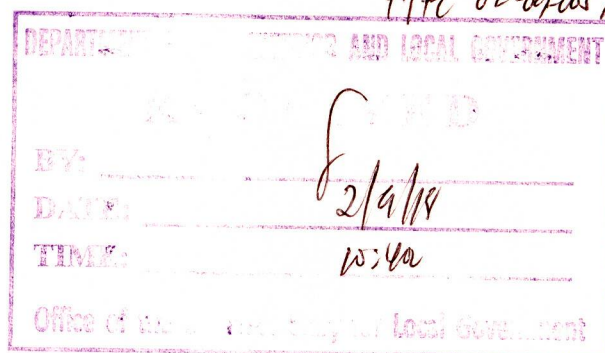

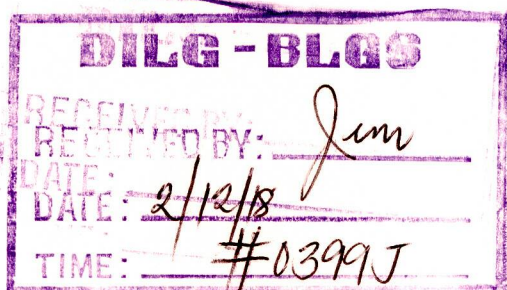

In connection with the abovementioned conference, the School would like to respectfully request for an endorsement from your good office to encourage LGUs to participate in the exploration, appreciation, implementation, and for effective integration of these sustainable growth initiatives to local planning, policy-making, and governance processes. We would also like to invite you and representatives from attached bureaus to attend the Conference.

We are attaching the conference note and registration form for your perusal. Thank you very much and we look forward to your favorable response.

Very truly yours,

DR. MARIO R. DELOS REYES

Planning towards Sustainability and Resilience

March 14-15, 2018 | Manila, Philippines

International Conference in Urban and Regional Planning

ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

Background

Communities and cities all over the world are facing the challenges of meeting the current needs of their populations while striving to provide for the needs of the future. Faced with rapid urbanization, environmental degradation, and increasing demand for social services, cities, provinces and regions of the Philippines need to address their distinct challenges in order to remain sustainable.

The crafting of the Sustainable Development Goals in 2015 recognized of the growing problem and the severe consequences of unsustainable development worldwide. Through these set of goals, each action taken by governments, the private sector, and civil society should be geared towards addressing specific sustainable development priorities, which, collectively, shall aim to “end poverty, protect the planet, and ensure prosperity for all”.

Objectives of the Conference

The International Conference in Urban and Regional Planning (ICURP) adopts the theme “Planning towards Sustainability and Resilience” and with the following conference objectives:

- To unite research and planning initiatives that foster significant, incremental change towards sustainable growth;
- To provide a venue for the exchange of knowledge, toward meeting the diverse environmental, social and economic needs of society, at present and in the future; and
- To strengthen the international, regional and local collaborative networks with the intent of promoting sustainability.

Audience

The conference aims to bring together 300 to 500 local and foreign participants from government agencies and offices, private organizations and the academe with an interest in influencing and further advancing sustainability and resilience at the national, regional and local levels.

Conference Date and Theme

The 2-day conference is scheduled for March 14-15, 2018. Along with general issues under the main theme, the conference shall cover the following sub-themes:

- Sustainable Development
- Sustainable Transport
- Sustainable Infrastructure
- Climate Change Mitigation and Adaptation
- Disaster Risk Reduction and Management
- Policy and Institutions
